

ABSTRACT

A camera comprising:

- 5 image signal;
- (a) means for capturing an image of a real world scene as an
- (b) storage means for storing captured images and from which stored images can be read;
- (c) a screen;
- (d) a means for displaying on the screen a symbolic
- 10 representation of the list of stored images and a user selected location within the list;
- (e) a user interface which allows a user to select the location within the list; and
- (f) means for displaying on the screen the image within the list
- 15 corresponding to the selected location.

A method which can be executed by a camera such as the above, is also provided.